The court, in its opinion, said that the plaintiffs in that view of the statute of limitations, plaintiffs were not entitled to recover. If the defendant had been a party to the fraud, an oath in 1849. This the latter denied on oath. Judge Metcalf instructed the jury that they were satisfied of two things, namely, first, that the defendant had been a party to the fraud, and that he fraudulently concealed the taking of the same. The statute of limitations did not apply, and the defendant was liable for the amount and interest.—Boston Herald.

[For the Louisville Courier.]

The afflicted are visiting Louisville from parts of the Union—from California to the north, and from New York, and even Canada. Query? What chance have they of recovering their health, after thousands of miles, from home and friends, and come to Louisville to be treated by Doctor Hall? What has given him this world-wide reputation? Is it his skill? Is it his medicine? Or is it that daily visit his office. There is but one answer. Dr. Hall has a large reputation in Louisville, in Lexington, and in the surrounding rural districts. Citizens, who have been cured by him, and who remain sound and well.

It is believed that no man possesses more of the qualities of a physician, than Dr. Hall. His skill, his industry, and permanency of cure, he stands unparalleled. Indeed, it is very common for a great many physicians, to advise their patients to be cured in Louisville; while others, as a distinction
